HONGKONG, 5th AUGUST, 1904.

If there is one thing more than another that is prone to put the bitterness of disappointment into the hearts of men, it is that item of procedure which we know as "the casting vote." This week, at Hongkong, we had a decision that will tend to make the public rise up and call it—the casting vote—blessed. Nowhere, more than in such cities as these eastern places, teeming with Chinese coolies, is the pathway of the pedestrian strewn with such dangers and annoyances. Perhaps the European is a more unreasonable and more easily annoyed creature than the Oriental. Certainly the risk of a blow on the head is faced with greater equanimity by the latter, and when received, does not seem always to create so much distress, or other feeling, as it undoubtedly does in the case of the gentler nurtured "foreign devil." The Puisne Judge (MR. SERCOMBE SMITH) and the Magistrate (MR. GOMPERTZ) recognized that on the Hongkong trotter we went in danger of casks and barrels. They admitted that, however unreasonable some of our grumblings might be, we had a legal right to complain if our progress were obstructed by barrel, cask, butt, or other thing of the same genus being rolled or carried. They would probably, on meeting the problem face to face, admit the existence of danger where a coolie, carrying a bamboo pole on his shoulder, does a half turn to hail a perspiring comrade; for the foot passenger coming along behind enjoys an experience quodam generis with that of the yachtsman's guest who fails to duck when the boom swings. But because the letter of the law was capable, in their opinion, of a narrow construction—a construction that prohibited only such articles as could be, as the merchants say, "rolled and/or carried"—they maintained that our magistrates were not obliged, were disallowed in fact, to punish and prevent the trespass of such things, although all men know they are much more "calculated to annoy" than the articles enumerated in the Ordinance. The particulars of the case have already been so fully recited in our columns, and the general interest taken in the subject has been so pronounced, that we may safely assume our readers are now familiar with the de-batable issue. His Lordship the Chief Justice (Sir W. M. GOODMAN), in giving the ruling and the casting vote which we are convinced will be everywhere applauded, did so "with some diffidence"; but we suspect that this phrase was more expressive of His Lordship's courtesy than of any serious doubt that he entertained. Certainly the laymen will have much less diffidence, claiming as they will that it is as much a question of the King's English as a point of law. The crucial phrase in sub-section eleven of the relevant Ordinance runs: "Upon any 'public footway, rolls or carries any barrel, cask, butt, or other thing calculated to annoy or incommode the passengers thereon.'" Now, the layman (ourselves for example), noting that the whole argument was concerned with the interpretation of that phrase, instantly notes that there is no comma—immediately following the word "thing." Seeing that the contention of the Puisne Judge and the Magistrate depends upon the bracketing of "or other thing" with the preceding substantives, to make the schedule of forbidden things indicate barrels, casks, butts, or other kindred things, the layman, not cognizant of the legal abhorrence of punctuation marks, whence has arisen the saying that "you can drive a horse and cart through an Act of Parliament," naturally expects some separative sign between the words "thing" and "calculated." Without that, he thinks the most obvious and reasonable interpretation is the reading adopted by the Chief Justice, who renders the sense as "or any other thing that is calculated," et cetera. To vivify for the lay mind the phraseology that was supposed to need interpretation, may we paraphrase the clause into a pious sort of invocation? It will be found, on examination, to be absolutely "on all fours" as the forensic folk have it; and it seems to clarify the position. Say: "May Heaven guide every judge, magistrate, lawyer, or other person calculated to annoy laymen by committing errors of judgment." That is a sentiment which no man will refuse to echo with some sincerity. Admirers of our men of law may now argue: Yes. It means well, like the Ordinance of 1845, but it helps only our magistrates or judges, who are too wise to be regarded as ejusdem generis with the lay "persons calculated to annoy" by making mistakes. Yet in uttering or echoing that prayer, there is not one petitioner who would therefore expect the Divine guidance to be granted to the judge and the magistrates mentioned specifically, and not to the unofficial persons "calculated to annoy" in that manner, say chemists. In the same way, from the annoyances and dangers to which we are subject, we looked to that Ordinance of 1845 to protect us, fully, and without any petty reservations. The learned gentlemen who held the contrary view to that of the Chief Justice are not to be supposed to have maintained such opposition from any bigotted preference for the strict letter of the law. They have told us, and we can quite see that their view is a fair one, that the wider reading of that Ordinance makes possible a number of frivolous, vexatious prosecutions, based on the complaints of unreasonable passengers or policemen. Fortunately, this point has been sufficiently covered by Sir W. M. GOODMAN in the following words, which are wise enough to bear repetition: "If people are, hereafter, 'improperly harassed by prosecutions for carrying on the public footway, things not reasonably calculated to annoy or incommode reasonable people, having regard to the conditions of modern life and to all the circumstances of the case, I take it the Magistrate would very properly refuse to convict and, if he thought it necessary, would censure the course adopted by the police or prosecutor. He would regard the spirit as well as the letter of the Ordinance." To which we add, with confidence, that more serious "hardship to law-abiding citizens" was likely to ensue under the other reading of the law than will be the case under the reading now happily established as authoritative.

There were two fatal plague cases yesterday.

At the Supreme Court the Long Vacation will be entered upon on the 20th prox., and be finished on 17th October.

Those desirous of having an evening's entertainment could not do better than pay a visit to Simon's show on the Praya opposite the Central Market. The waxwork figures are very good and the side-shows are entertaining.

The funeral took place at Happy Valley yesterday evening of F. Shuster, of the Quarry Bay Sugar Works, who was found unconscious with a gash in his head near No. 2 Police Station, and died subsequently in the Civil Hospital. There was no inquest.

Among the "They Say's" of the Manila Sunday Sun is the statement that the U.S. Naval officers visiting Hongkong were not honorary members of the Club; that officers of other nationality were; and that the Sun would like to know the reason.

The Chief Justice, Sir William Meigh Goodman, goes home on the 27th inst., and during his absence Sir Henry Spencer Berkeley, Attorney-General, will act in his stead. Mr. E. H. Sharp, K.C., will fill the post of Attorney-General.

The local officials at the P. &amp; O. office have been good enough to send us an attractive book entitled "Where to Stay." It contains six or seven hundred photographs of holiday resorts at home, and is published by the Gordon Hotels, Limited.

The N.C. Daily News quotes from a mysterious contemporary the following jeu d'esprit. "Is it a fact that the Russians are now advertising: 'Try our bottled port?' And that the Japs have entered into a contract to take the lot?"

The Shanghai Zionist Association sent the following telegram to the English Association, referring to the death of Mr. Herzl, the distinguished Zionist: "Shanghai Zionists deeply regret untimely death Herzl. Leader, Prince in Israel, fallen. Convey condolence bereaved family. Edward Ezra, President."

A Nanking despatch states that Viceroy Wei Kuang-tao has sent nearly 5,000 men to reinforce the Two Kwang troops in suppressing the rebellion there. The majority of these Liangkang reinforcements have hitherto been stationed in the cities along the Grand Canal, and are said to be among the best to be had in the Liangkang provinces.

It is rumoured, says the Foochow Echo, Monsieur A. J. Landuy, Consul for France at Amoy, is to arrive here shortly to take up the post as Consul for France. Consul Landuy was here some time ago as acting Consul for a very short period of time, when he was transferred to Amoy. He has the reputation of possessing a thorough knowledge of the Mandarin dialect.

Yesterday about mid-day Mrs. Noble residing at No. 17, Bellfield Terrace, had an accidental fall on coming out of one of the draper's shops in Wellington Street and sustained a bad fracture of the right leg. An Indian policeman and two gentlemen who happened to be passing came to her assistance and she was conveyed by the Indian constable to her home, where after the swelling had subsided the bone was set by Dr. Just. It will probably be two months before she is able to walk again.

A Straits-born Chinese, writing in the Straits Times in reference to the recent expression of opinion by the Chief Justice of Hongkong in favour of the registration of Chinese partnerships, says it is largely admitted that compulsory registration of partnerships should have been in force in the Straits Settlements long ago. After quoting a recent case in illustration of the evils resulting from the absence of compulsory registration, he concludes: "I think that the traders be registered, and all their books be stamped, and if possible the photographs of all the partners taken, and also the partners should subscribe their names in a book kept for the purpose. If an ordinance was passed to this effect it would save much trouble both to the public and the Government. The Official Assignee or the Protector of Chinese could appoint an officer to do this; and charge a small fee for the work performed."The N.C. Daily News understands that the gentleman who is on his way to the Far East to succeed Mr. Willis E. Gray as Chairman of the Committee of the American China Development Company and Engineer-in-chief of the Hankow-Canton railway, is a native of Luxembourg.A correspondent of the Foochow Daily Echo, who gives the comparative July rainfall for ten years, must surely have been joking. After eight years of variation between two to eight inches, he gives the rainfall in July last year as 1.40 inches, and in the July just passed, 17.34 inches.

It is notified in Government notification, No. 547, issued yesterday, that gentlemen attending His Excellency the Governor's Levee are expected to appear either in Morning or Evening Dress, except in cases where they may elect to attend in uniform, when Full Dress should be worn.

Referring to "the complete collapse of the whole of the front of the new building erected on the (Foochow) Bund for the French Post Office," the Foochow Daily Echo calls it "significant of the risks run by allowing native builders a free hand." It seems that the rush happened very early in the morning, and only one Chinaman was reported injured.The Right Rev. Bishop L. M. Piazzoli, who is ill, left yesterday by the German mail steamer Prinz Regent Luitpold for Italy for a prolonged rest and change. His Lordship, who had been engaged in mission work for about 35 years, has never been home except once for a few months. We hear that his medical attendant assigns this long stay in a foreign climate as the cause of his present complaint, and advised an immediate trip home, which we hope will prove a benefit. His Lordship's return as the vicar apostolic of the Roman Catholic mission in Hongkong, will be welcomed. A large number of people went on board to wish His Lordship Godspeed, including nearly the whole of the Roman Catholic clergy and Senior Conselleiro Romano. The Revd. Father Pozzoni, who has also been in China for a long time, accompanies His Lordship home.By kind permission of Lt.-Col. Iremonger and officers, the Band of the 93rd Burma Infantry will play the following programme of music at the King Edward Hotel, during dinner to-night (weather permitting):—

COLLISION.

A collision between the steamers Wongkoi and Ujina occurred off West Point at about 8 p.m. on Wednesday evening. It appears that the Wongkoi, a Norddeutscher Lloyd—formerly one of the Scottish Oriental Co.—steamer, had just arrived from Bangkok, with a cargo of rice, when the Ujina, a British India Co. steamer arriving from Singapore, collided with her. The bow of the Ujina came in contact with the starboard gangway of the Wongkoi, breaking up the ladder, and badly denting three plates. The Ujina got her stem badly twisted. It is understood that those on the Ujina thought the Wongkoi to be under weigh.

NATIVE UPRISING AT CANTON.

Conflicting reports reach us from Canton, having reference to an uprising there which was evidently of a serious nature. On the 1st instant, towards evening, one Chinese was killed and several wounded, at Wongshe, near Canton, by the American engineers there, who were threatened by a Chinese mob. The windows of various foreign buildings, including the hospital, were riddled with stones, and a determined attempt was made to wreck the engineering works. The Americans tried peaceful means, we understand, but were finally forced in self protection to draw and fire upon the large crowd. One volley was sufficient.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WANTON CRUELTY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."

4th August, 1904.

SIR,—I think it is already high time that something should be done to prevent the brutal practice of idle Chinese rascals catching grasshoppers or crickets for fighting purposes along public roads. Yesterday afternoon I saw no less than six of these lads engaged in this humanising pastime on Kennedy Road. Incidentally I might also mention the fact that the monkeys in the Public Gardens have been subjected to severe lashing from visitors lately. When will our lethargic authorities be aroused from their slumbers and decide to take out a few dollars for the purpose of suitably housing and feeding these defenceless creatures, instead of keeping them penned up in their present wretched condition?—Yours, etc.,

THE AMERICAN-CHINA DEVELOPMENT COMPANY.

ALLEGED WRONGFUL DISCHARGE OF AN OFFICIAL.

In the U.S. Consular Court at Shanghai last week, Mr. W. P. Boyd brought an action against the American-China Development Co. (Hankow-Canton Railway) to recover the sum of gold $500, which plaintiff alleged was due to him as salary for the month of June. It appeared from the evidence that the plaintiff was appointed by the Board of Commissioners in August 1902 as secretary to the Board and also secretary to the Engineer-in-Chief at a salary of gold $500 per month for the period of five years. In May the American-China Development Co. called from New York to the Board of Commissioners in Shanghai instructing them to discharge the plaintiff, and in accordance with this advice the Commissioners ceased to pay the plaintiff any salary after May 31st. Plaintiff denied the right of the Board to dismiss him. The Company took up the position that the Board of Commissioners exceeded their authority in making the appointment, but the Court held that full power was given by the Company to make such an appointment. His Honour in his judgment went on to say that the contract with Mr. Boyd provided in plain terms that reasons it might be abrogated. None of these had been set up or alleged, but on the contrary the testimony of the Acting Agent was that no complaint had been made of the manner in which Mr. Boyd performed his duties. Mr. Kingsford testified that he thought the only reason the company desired Mr. Boyd's discharge was to curtail expenses. It seemed that the defendant company acknowledged its liability under this contract of employment and paid Mr. Boyd his salary thereunder for 22 months; it alleged no reason but its own will for seeking to terminate the contract. The Court found for the plaintiff in the sum of U.S. gold $500 as salary for June, 1904. Defendant to pay the costs of the suit.

Mr. Platt said that he intended to ask leave to appeal against the judgment.
His Honour said that notice of appeal must be lodged before 8 p.m. on the 27th July.

SIR ROBERT HART.

This is how the leading Republican paper of America (the Springfield Republican) speaks of Sir Robert Hart:—

Sir Robert Hart, the Englishman who has been in China 50 years and who has long been the Chinese Inspector-General of Customs, is as genuine and unselfish a friend as China can find among alien peoples. By "unselfish" is meant that his views concerning the policy of China are not coloured by patriotic or commercial prepossessions in favour of the interests of other countries. Foreign statesmen, whether European or American, always base their Chinese policy upon the assumed interests of their own people. If the German emperor is indifferent to the open-door policy and the preservation of China's territorial integrity, that is because he thinks Germany's interests would be advanced by opposite principles of development. And if the English and American Governments labour to sustain China's territorial integrity and the policy of the open door in trade, that is because English and American interests can be best subserved thereby. No one anywhere will work primarily for China; unless it be a Chinaman or an exceptional foreign resident like Sir Robert Hart.

AN EXCLUSIVE CULT.

There has been quite a heated discussion in Bombay between the orthodox and advanced sections of the Parsees over the question of admitting foreigners into the Zoroastrian faith. The orthodox members of the community are still at variance over the marriage last year of Mr. R. D. Tata to a French lady, and although Mrs. Tata has been initiated into the faith and has taken part in the regular marriage ceremony, the doors of the fire temples are closed to her, care being taken that the couple do not pay a surprise visit. A meeting has been held and the head priests in Bombay were almost at one in their opinion that proselytism was allowed by the Zoroastrian faith, but the members separated without coming to any definite conclusion with regard to the matter.

THE "MALACCA."

LONDON, 2nd August.

The Russian Government has issued a statement on the release of the Malacca saying that the liberation is due solely to the British declaration that the contraband was Government property. It affirms that the captain refused to show his papers, and adds that the Government in nowise abandons its intention to send out cruisers and other warships to prevent the carriage of contraband to the enemy. The term of the commission under which the St. Petersburg and the Sokoluski were sent out has now expired. The status of the Volunteer cruisers in connection with the Dardanelles question is not mentioned in the statement.

WAR ITEMS.

LATE NEWS FROM NORTHERN EXCHANGES.

Late telegrams from the Shanghai papers received yesterday do not seem to cover anything of importance. The Vladivostok squadron was reported in the vicinity of Tokyo Bay on the 28th ultimo. The reports of fighting there turned out to be scares. General Oku enumerated more Russian atrocities at Tashikiao. The Port Arthur messages were mostly Chefoo guesses, but they agreed on continuous sounds of firing. Edwin H. Clough, in the Frisco Examiner says:—
The Russo-Japanese war is a trust war operated by a close corporation. It is not the intention of either side to permit the outside world to know what they are doing if this knowledge can be suppressed by the most rigorous censorship and the utmost application of every stringency of martial law. At Newchwang, according to the N.C. Daily News, some amusing Box and Cox work with flags took place. On the 25th the Russian flag was hoisted over the Administration House and Chinese Customs. As soon as the Japanese scouts were sighted, the eagles came down, and the French colours went up. Next morning the Chinese Dragon had supplanted the tricolour, but it immediately retired in favour of the Japanese emblem. Mr. H. A. Little, the British Consul, assisted by Mrs. Little, averted a threatened riot.

The Mounted Bandits of Manchuria, says a Chinese official who arrived at Shanghai from Mukden, on the 23rd ultimo, are being instructed by certain able teachers in the art of digging trenches and putting up breastworks on a number of eminences and strategic points in the vicinity of the Russian forces from Mukden down to Haicheng, which work having been done satisfactorily, they leave to any Japanese force that may happen to come along to occupy. Sometimes these bandits are molested in their work by Russian detachments of Cossack scouts and a fight ensues—not always in favour of the Cossacks—but in the majority of cases the digging and entrenching are done quietly and secretly and so pass unnoticed by the Muscovites, until they find a Japanese force angrily encountered within their works.

The N.C. Daily News publishes a Newchwang despatch to this effect:—"The Japanese occupation has brought peace and safety. The Russian restrictions on trade have been removed." A junk from Yantowan reported that the Japanese fleet was bombarding Port Arthur on July 22nd.

RUSSIAN DEFEAT EXPLAINED.

A telegram from General Flouge to General Dessino was circulated on July 27th in Shanghai, explaining that in the fighting at Tashikiao on Sunday last the Russians were everywhere successful in repulsing the Japanese attacks, but that when it was discovered that another Japanese army was advancing on Simucheng and Haicheng through the Tailing and Pelling passes, General Zarnuber, in execution of his orders, retired northward in good order without being pursued by the enemy.

THE VLADIVOSTOCK SQUADRON.

The confirmation by the Russians of the British steamer Altanton may, unless authoritatively inquired into and resisted, prove a serious precedent and affect the whole position of neutral shipping in time of war. There appears now to be little doubt that she was confiscated, not because she had contraband goods on board at the time of capture, which she had not—but because on the voyage out from Cardiff to Japan she had taken Welsh coal. That is to say, she has been punished for past, not present, offences. A Times correspondent learns that, after discharging her Welsh coal, the Altanton went to Muroran, Hokkaido Island, on the north-east coast of Japan. She there loaded Japanese commercial coal for a firm in Singapore and passed through Singapore Straits in order to take the shorter west coast route. The Vladivostok squadron there intercepted her. If her captain had feared capture, nothing would have been easier than to take the safer but longer east coast route. The facts have been represented to the Foreign Office, but the view taken there is that, as an appeal to the Russian Admiralty Court is allowed, the case is still sub judice, and that no steps can be taken by the British Government. Lord Lansdowne would, however, appear to overlook the fact that an appeal—whatever it may be worth—will in all probability not be heard for months, and that all this time the unfortunate owner will be deprived of the use of his valuable vessel. Full particulars might at the least be pressed for, and the Russians might be required to show some prima facie case for the confiscation. The doctrine that, on subsequent capture a neutral vessel can be condemned for alleged past offences is one in which this country can hardly afford to acquiesce.

“ENGLAND PROPOSES.”

England proposes, but China disposes, says the Sunday Sun. It might have been thought that, when the former country announced the fact that she had determined to employ Chinese on the Rand mines, South Africa, there would be no difficulty in obtaining as many as she might require. Steamers at Hongkong have not been able to get away, not that the coals were not forthcoming, not that there was any delay on the part of the shipowners, but that His Majesty's Viceroy of Canton “put his foot down” and forbade the exodus of his fellow countrymen. What power the Viceroy had for doing such a thing is not quite clear, but the ways of Chinese are inscrutable. This great man in his peacock feathers and embroidered robes issued a proclamation, and traffic in coals came to a dead stop. Peking has sent word since the Viceroy issued his proclamation to issue another to the effect that the immigration can proceed. This is all very well; but how about loss of time to the contractors, shippers, and all the rest?

PHILIPPINE TRADE.

This is taken from the Sunday Sun of Manila:—The Hongkong Weekly Press, in commenting on the Internal Revenue Law recently passed by the Commission, among other things states that the Government evidently takes a very hopeful view of the future. It is not admitted that stagnated industry and depressed business accurately describe the present condition in the Islands. We should like to know how else to describe it, for, look at the matter in the most optimistic light, business in Manila is at a very low ebb. Shipping people will tell you that things in their line are very bad. In spite of Customs receipts and Consular reports which look very healthy since the American occupation, we have to balance this on the other hand with the enormous cost of bureaux and the highly paid officials who conduct the Government machinery, showing that the revenue is swallowed up for this purpose. Whether things can be worked on a more economical basis remains to be seen. Decentralisation must be the keynote of success, and more development in the provinces must take place before a healthy and lasting trade can be established throughout the archipelago.

SMALLPOX AT BRUNEI.

A HEAVY DEATH ROLL.
A devastating epidemic of smallpox which, the Strait Times says, is “decimating the natives by hundreds” has broken out in Brunei, and an urgent appeal for medical assistance has been sent to Singapore. The result of that appeal was immediately acted upon and four doctors—Dr. Shepherd, of Tan Tock Seng Hospital, Dr. Busch, of H.M.S. Sirius, Dr. Giddy, of Christmas Island, and Assistant Surgeon Wheatley—have left Singapore for the afflicted district.

It seems that Brunei has a native population of 5,000, but there is only one European doctor available for duty there. That is Dr. Adamson, the Colonial Surgeon of the island of Labuan, at the entrance to Brunei Bay. When the epidemic appeared it spread with such frightful rapidity that the only doctor in the place was overtaxed to combat the disease. By last reports there were 1,000 cases under treatment and 500 deaths had occurred. Vaccine was also practically finished, and in these circumstances the appeal for help became a clamant cry. The appeal was received by the P.M.O., Dr. McDowell, who at once made arrangements to answer it by sending four medical men to Brunei. But there was the difficulty of providing lymph. Such an immense quantity as will be required could not be furnished by Singapore. It was accordingly decided to get a supply of lymph from Saigon and H.M.S. Rinaldo left on the 29th ult. to convey the lymph from Saigon to Brunei.

The relief medical expedition was to leave by the Manila on the 30th ult., and it is expected that the Rinaldo will arrive at Brunei about the same time as the Manila. The party will establish tents and live in the open, treating all and sundry with every means at their disposal for the extermination of the epidemic. It is probable that they will be away from Singapore for several weeks, and there is no doubt that they will have an arduous task before them. The natives of Brunei live under conditions which are extremely favourable to infection, and the efforts of one overworked doctor would be impossible to stop the outbreak. It is hoped, however, that the party from Singapore will succeed in eradicating the disease and checking the terrible death-rate.

POLICE COURT.

Thursday, 4th August.

BEFORE MR. H. H. J. GOMPERTZ (ACTING POLICE MAGISTRATE).

HE “LAUGHED BEST.”
A Chinese waiter from a Chinese tea-house charged a brother waiter with assault.

Complainant said defendant laughed at him, and he laughed back. Defendant then assaulted him.

Mr. GomPERTZ: Who laughed last?
Complainant: I did.

A fine of $5 was imposed—and the complainant laughed. (Laughter.)

A TRIAD.
After a recent raid on a Triad meeting at Yau-mat, several men were sent to prison. Mr. O. D. Thomson, solicitor, however, secured a remand in the case of one of the defendants, his client, as the man desired to call witnesses. This man was now convicted and sentenced to six months' imprisonment, and six hours' stocks.

EXPENSIVE BLASTS.
The coxswain of the launch Sau-mee was summoned by P. Sergt. Kerr for blowing his steam-whistle for other purposes than that of navigation. The complainant said that defendant had blown ten blasts in 20 minutes. He desired to attract the attention of passengers. The launch was plying on a new run from Hongkong to Samshui.

The Magistrate explained to defendant that he was liable to a fine of $100 for each blast. He would fine him $20 a blast, $20 in all.

ALLEGED ARSON.
The case of the alleged arson against the master of No. 138, Wellington Street, a building that caught fire on the 8th February last, again came before Mr. GomPERTZ. Mr. E. R. Hallifax prosecuted, and Mr. P. W. Goldring, solicitor, of Mr. John Hastings' office, appeared for the defence.

The case was remanded.

BEFORE MR. J. H. KEMP (SECOND POLICE MAGISTRATE).

THE BOMBAY BARRISTER.
The case of Sapurji Cowasji Sanjana, the Parsee barrister who is desired by the Bombay police to answer to a charge of forgery, was again brought before Mr. Kemp yesterday afternoon. Mr. F. B. L. Bowley, solicitor, appeared for the Bombay Police, and Mr. J. Harston, solicitor, appeared on behalf of the accused.

Inspector Power, of the Bombay Police, having given evidence, Mr. Harston asked: Did you know at the time that there was no extradition treaty between Bombay and Manila?

Mr. Power: Of my own knowledge I did not know.

Continuing, in answer to Mr. Harston's questions, the witness said the accused had been arrested at Manila by the Manila authorities under instructions from the British Government. He had been placed on board the s.s. Zafiro by the Manila police, who remained on the steamer till just before her departure. Witness, however, did not arrest the man till they were out of sight of land, though he shadowed him everywhere. Accused, when ordered into the steam-launch at Manila, expressed a desire to get his things, but this was not allowed by the Manila authorities. The accused's effects were sent on to the Hotel America, where Mr. Power is staying, afterwards. As the accused refused to go on the steam-launch an American policeman called out for two men, and then he went; he had no collar on. When the Zafiro arrived at Hongkong the police flag was hoisted and the man placed in custody.

Mr. Harston: Does not this amount to kidnapping?

Witness: No, it does not amount to kidnapping, but it amounts to abduction.

Witness continuing said he knew nothing of the case personally; he only went by the depositions. He had seen the accused in the dock at Bombay. The prisoner was missing on the third day.

The accused made a long statement, explaining to Mr. Kemp how he had been told by the Sheriff at Manila that he was free, and then how, while the Sheriff was still in the room, he was arrested, put into a closed carriage, and, eventually, put on the steamer. He denied the truth of the charge against him.

The case was remanded.

A JEWELLERY CASE.

A man was charged with larceny. Mr. H. W. Looker, solicitor, of Messrs. Deacon, Looker and Deacon, appeared for the defence. It was alleged that he had given the complainant (a Chinese woman) a cigarette, and the funds of it made her ill and drowsy. He then followed her home, and when she fell asleep robbed her. The case was dismissed.

BAD MONEY.

A man was charged with unlawful possession of bad money. He had seven Chinese coins from which a considerable amount of silver had been worn, and three bad British dollars. The defendant was discharged.

IS A BANANA A PLANTAIN?

For some time past the unsophisticated Londoner has been astonished at the alarmingly increased size of the bananas exposed to view in the fruiterers' and—especially—on the street barrows. He has been forced to the conclusion that these same gigantic bananas can be nothing less than plantains, but in this he is, it is well to know, mistaken. It is indeed doubtful, says a correspondent of the Daily Mail, if the plantain has ever reached our shores. Eaten banana fashion, that is to say raw, it would indeed be anything but palatable. The plantain, in fact, requires careful cooking to make it edible, being either boiled, baked, or roasted, according to taste, when it is split lengthways, salted and peppered, and served up hot. Then—but not till then—it is a feast for the gods.

THE LESSON OF WARS.

Mr. Chamberlain, speaking to the Royal Institute of Public Health on the last day of June, seems to have been in excellent form. We present here the concluding third of his excellent address, as it appears in the Times:

THE CONSOLIDATION OF THE EMPIRE.

For, after all, I repeat what I have said on other occasions, the work of this century, or, at all events, of the beginning of the century upon which we have entered, is the consolidation of our Empire. (Loud cheers.) And this is one branch of the greatest of all subjects: how are we to fulfil the task which Providence has laid upon our shoulders, a greater task than has ever been imposed upon any other nation, a task which we are now fulfilling not without success, but the greatness, the increasing greatness of which will fill even the boldest of us with some anxiety. Where has there ever been, where can there ever be, such an Empire as that for which we are responsible? It is not the creation of a definite policy steadily pursued. No, it has been well said that we have no policy, but that we have somehow or other blundered into the best places of the world. (Laughter and cheers.) I suppose that in the great designs of Providence there is reason for this. Our Governments have blundered, our statesmen have drifted. But that does not apply to the men whom we have sent out from our midst who have gone from Scotland, Ireland, and England into all parts of the world, who have left their bones in foreign countries, who have given the best of their lives and vigour to make the Empire of which we are so proud. (Cheers.) Without communication, without organization, they never blundered (loud cheers); the pioneers, the discoverers, and the conquerors, they have all done their part, and in extraordinary emergencies, with a devotion above all praise, they have followed the lines of duty and patriotism, and to them the country ought to be grateful beyond any other. (Cheers.) In my experience at the Colonial Office the most creditable of all the evidences of the characteristics of the British race which were ever brought to my knowledge have been the action over and over again of young men, soldiers and civilians, who, suddenly brought face to face with great emergencies, have risen to the occasion to defend the honour of the British flag and the British name. I wish sometimes that it were possible by some sort of telephonic machinery to bring before such an audience as this a picture of what the British Empire is doing at any moment. At this hour at which we are speaking, if we could by some series of pictures and in a concise form show you what is going on in all those countries beyond the seas, what a testimony it would be to the still surviving virtues of the race! (Cheers.)

THE LESSON OF WARS.

There you would find us at war, struggling in contests each one of which stands by itself, has its special conditions, its unique peculiarities; you would find English officers, almost boys from school, leading native troops, who show to them that devotion which they must have deserved, leading them successfully to victory under every conceivable circumstance. We are always at war. The gates of the Temple of Janus are never closed in the British Empire. War is bad, we all hate it; but remember it has its compensations; remember that all these wars which are a necessity of Empire and which you must expect in the future as you have had them in the past, although we may hope they will become less frequent as time goes on, remember that these wars save more lives than they cost. (Cheers.) What do you see in India, for instance, where since the Pax Britannica was established at great cost of British life, the population has enormously increased and the country has progressed in everything which makes a nation? So in Africa. I remember my friend the late Sir Henry Stanley telling me that he had made a calculation a few years ago that the loss of life in South Africa was not less than 2,000,000 a year owing to inter-tribal war and the slave raids to which the country has been for centuries a prey. And wherever we go, wherever the British rule is established after, it may be, the loss of some lives as which some of our philanthropists excessively deplore, lives, indeed, of Englishmen as well as natives given for a great ideal, after these were peace is established and every man under the British flag can count with certainty upon security for his life and his property and can go on progressing to the utmost of which he is capable. (Cheers.)

THE WORK OF THE COLONISTS.

But it would not be a picture of war alone. Still more interesting and striking would be the victories of peace. You would find men for whom we do very little, but who do so much for us. You would find these men in every part of the world, dealing with every conceivable problem of government, with education, with trade, with health, above all, with the development of the countries that are given to their charge. You would find them engaged in this beneficent and important work. Ah! what have they done for us? You may have the alternatives—you may put it in either way—you may say they have given us the proudest heritage that ever man enjoyed, or you may say that they have laid upon our shoulders a greater burden than any nation ever bore. They have done both, and I rejoice in both. (Cheers.) I rejoice in both, because I firmly believe that it has made us greater and better (cheers), because I believe it has elevated this nation, because it has released us from a mere provincial existence, from the petty and detestable parochial selfishness into which we might otherwise have fallen. What is the conclusion? These men are the great assets of the British Empire. Let us prize them and value them, let us do everything to keep them in the vigour of life, and it is for that reason that I attach so much importance to these investigations, to these studies, and to this research which is going, I truly believe—sanguine optimist as I always am (cheers)—in the course of time to make those tropical climates, which have been each in their turn the white man's grave, to make them places where white men can live in comfort. It is because of that that I wish to conclude by saying that, after all, one of these almost unknown students working in laboratories in London, Liverpool, and elsewhere may be doing more good for the Empire than any statesman has been able to do, however high his position. It is with that feeling that I have had so much pleasure in attending this meeting, and it is with that feeling that I thank you once more most heartily for the sympathy which you have shown. I will not say with performance, but at all events with intention and with the ideal which I hope every patriotic Englishman sets before himself. (Loud cheers.)

RATE-CUTTING CONFERENCE.

At the suggestion of Mr. Gerald Balfour, President of the Board of Trade, a friendly conference has been arranged between Mr. Ballin, managing director of the Hamburg-America Company, and Lord Inverclyde, chairman of the Cunard Company, with a view to an examination of the existing differences.

It is just six weeks since Lord Inverclyde and Mr. Ballin last met in London, when their attempts to avert a rate-cutting war were unsuccessful.

The day after that meeting Mr. Ballin, expressing himself as desirous of exhausting all means of bringing about an amicable arrangement rather than throw money away on a fight, suggested the calling in of Mr. Gerald Balfour as arbitrator. Nothing, however, resulted from the suggestion until the conference which has now been fixed.

THE ENGLISH SUNDAY.

In a circular issued by the committee of the Lay Movement in favour of Sunday worship and rest, it is contended that the amount of labour caused by the rapid increase and development of Sunday entertainments, sports, amusements, and unnecessary travelling is seriously impairing the character of Sunday, and is removing from large classes of servants and subordinates all possibility of attending divine service, or of obtaining reasonable rest and recreation.

Yesterday at the Church of St. Edmund the Martyr, Lombard-street, the Primato delivered a special sermon in connection with the movement.

He said English people had been entrusted with a priceless heritage in the English Sunday. It was a gift above all others that would meet our moral needs and keep simple and faithful our daily lives. We should beware lest thoughtlessly we should allow the heritage to be in any way marred.

“MATRIMONIAL CLUB, LTD.”

The newest idea in clubs is one for the purpose of bringing young men and maidens together with the object of matrimony. The enterprise is to be given a trial, and the records at Somerset House show that there has been registered under the Companies Act “The Matrimonial Club, Ltd.”

“I went into the venture,” said one of the shareholders in this romantic syndicate to the Daily Mail, “solely because I believed it to be a sound investment, and one that would yield handsome dividends.”

Another shareholder waxed eloquent as to the merits of the company from the social and matrimonial side. “If certain young women met certain young men who in the ordinary course of events would never enter into their lives, it is obvious that they might find they possessed many sympathies in common, and, further, that deep feelings of affection might spring up between them. To fill the long-felt want, Cupid, Limited, steps forward and makes his bow to an anxious public.”

“His arrows will be aimed at vulnerable hearts under cover of the soft strains of the waltz in the shade of conservatories or on the banks of picturesque rivers, for it is intended that clubs shall be formed which will organise picnics for the young people of both sexes, dances, boating excursions, and theatrical entertainments.”

“Cupid's pranks have hitherto been performed for his own amusement. It remains to be seen whether he will work for the success of an undertaking in which he is not even a shareholder.”

PRETTY WEDDING HYMN.

The marriage of Lady Norah Browne, daughter of the Marquess of Sligo, to Mr. Thomas J. M. More, of Shropshire, was distinguished by the singing of a new wedding hymn, composed by the bride, and set to music by the groom. This was it:

God, who dost join two hearts in love,
Send down Thy blessing from above;
Grant he may tend her as a flower
Sent him by Thee in life's brief hour.
That he may love her and adore
In purest love for evermore.

God, in whose sacrament divine
Two lives are linked by will of Thine,
His guiding star grant also may be;
His light to all eternity.
That she may love him and adore
In perfect love for evermore.

God, in whose name these two are one,
Grant they may live in Thee alone,
Guide them through life's long journey home,
Until Thy best realms they come.
That they may love Thee and adore
In holiest love for evermore.

THE DREYFUS CASE.

The arrest of three officers on active service, Lieutenant-Colonel Rollin, Captain François and Captain Marchal, in connection with the case against M. Dautriche, was reported in the Times. The exact charge brought against them has not been made known officially. Lieutenant-Colonel Rollin was the chief of the so-called Information or Secret Intelligence Bureau, of which M. Dautriche was a subordinate official during the Rennes trial. Captain François and Captain Marchal were also employed in that bureau at the same time.

It is assumed by the Press that these officers are accused of complicity in the proceedings of M. Dautriche, who is charged with having, by means of an erasure, falsified the accounts of the Information Bureau with the object of concealing the witness Czernuski, who gave evidence at Rennes against ex-Captain Dreyfus. It will be remembered that in the course of the inquiry instituted by the Criminal Chamber of the Court of Cassation, based upon the alleged fait nouveau, the Judge entrusted with the investigation discovered in one of the account books of the bureau the item “paid to Ansterlitz 20,000f. (£800),” the word “Ansterlitz” being written over an erasure. The inquiry as to the identity of the recipient of this sum, for whose real name the pseudonym “Ansterlitz” is supposed to have been substituted, has led to repeated examinations of Lieutenant-Colonel Rollin, Captain François, and Captain Marchal. It was after their confrontation in presence of a representative of the Court-martial that the three officers were arrested. It is stated in one of the morning papers that General Delanne, who was chief of the General Staff at the time when the payment in question was made, had declared in the course of the present inquiry that his subordinate in the Information Bureau had obtained his signature to the order for payment of the 20,000f. by means of a subterfuge. It is suggested that the arrest of the three officers was decided upon in consequence of this deposition by General Delanne and of other facts that afterwards came to light. Another Government organ is responsible for the statement that the three officers made damaging admissions in the course of the inquiry.

SHIPPING NOTES.

STEAMER MOVEMENTS.

The C.P.R. steamer Empress of Japan arrived at Vancouver on Tuesday, the 2nd August at 7 p.m.

The O.S.S. & C.M. steamer Glancus left Singapore for this port on the morning of the 3rd August, and is due here on the 8th August.

WEATHER.

Recent arrivals all report fine weather.

ARRIVALS.

The Wongkoi (German steamer) yesterday brought a consignment of rice and wood for Messrs. Butterfield & Swire; the Ufina arrived from Singapore with a cargo of general for Jardine, Matheson & Co.; and the Zuccena, British-owned, from Rangoon, had a consignment of kerosene oil on board for this port.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Perma, from Rangoon yesterday with a cargo of general, reports a death (Chinese) from beri-beri during the voyage. A smooth passage was experienced.

THE WRECK OF THE “MAHARAJAH.”

At the Marine Court of Inquiry held at the British Consulate-General, Yokohama, to inquire into the circumstances attending the wreck of the steamer Maharajah, Mr. J. C. Hall, I.S.O., H.B.M.'s Consul-General, presided, and had as associates Captain Campbell, of the Albatross, and Captain Graham, of the Ocampo. The Court gave as its opinion that the cause of the stranding was principally due to an abnormal current setting to N.N.E., catching the ship on the port bow and setting her stern towards the land. The courses steered and the distances run seemed to have been correct up to 10.30 p.m., when the change was made from south to west. Considering that Vries Island had not been seen, nor Rock Island light sighted, the Court was of opinion that the master was in error in altering his course to westward so soon, and for this he was reprimanded. The Court commended the conduct of Robert Charles, second engineer, in obtaining communication with the shore at the risk of his life after the stranding of the vessel. The other officers were all exempted from blame. The expenses of the Court were ordered to be paid by the Master.

The “Chiltern Hundreds” are a tract of land in Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire. The nominal duty (at a salary of 20s. and fees) of the M.P. who obtains this appointment, is to protect the inhabitants from the robbers in the Chiltern Hills. An M.P. drawing salary under the Crown is disqualified, so this appointment is kept open as a convenience for members anxious to resign.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

IMPROVEMENT IN THE MICROSCOPE—SINGING FISHES—EYER-READY OXYGEN—MEDICATED VEGETABLES—A LOVE-REGULATING SCIENCE—A WORLD-DARKENED PERIOD—SCIENCE V. NATURE—A LONG-BOUGHT METAL—BURGLAR ASPHYXIATING.

When highly magnified, the images of objects under a microscope reach the eye in a pencil of light so small that it is liable to be blurred by defects of the eye-lens or floating particles in the vitreous humour of the eye. In an instrument lately shown the London Royal Society, W. J. Gordon has overcome the difficulty by the use of a second microscope with a 4-inch object-glass, giving a further magnification of 100 diameters, the pencil of light being expanded by an oscillating ground-glass screen so as to fill the aperture of this second microscope. With this instrument a diatom magnified 10,000 diameters was shown wonderfully well defined and free from blur. To give an idea of this power, it is stated that the same magnification would cause the eye of a house-fly to cover an area of 312 square feet.

Not all fishes are dumb, but many species emit sounds and a few give remarkable concerts. Instances of the latter have been collected by Henri Coupin, a French author. On the western coast of Borneo, Prayer one night heard musical sounds varying from the resonance of an organ to the soft tones of an eolian harp, and in the China Sea, a United States naval officer was struck by an extraordinary blending of the low notes of an organ, the noise of bells and the sounds of a great harp, the intensity causing the vessel to quiver. The poggins, or tambours of the tropical western coast of the Atlantic, sometimes congregate about vessels producing a maddening chorus.

The oxygenophore of Sabatier, the new French apparatus, stores 15 litres of chemically pure oxygen in a 100 gramme tube of agglomerated sodium peroxide. This little automatic generator gives off a regular current of the gas at the instant when wanted for restoring an asphyxiated person, disinfecting, or any other of many uses.

A beginning in the dosing of plants as a means of treating weakness and disease of the human body has been made at the agricultural bacteriological station of Vienna. Artificially prepared foods containing iron salts often fail to have their intended effects, because the iron is not completely assimilated. The purpose of the experiments has been to increase the proportion of iron in our natural vegetable foods. In the first trial spinach was grown in soil to which hydrate of iron had been added, and the plants were found to have taken up seven times the ordinary percentage of iron, and this without injury. This iron, in a form free from the defects of the artificial preparations, is sufficient for medicinal purposes. Other plants should give as good results, and great possibilities in the hygienic and medicinal culture of common vegetables are suggested.

One of the late new sciences has received the name of "Eugenics," and as expounded by Dr. Galton, it seeks to determine the laws governing heredity, and to apply them to the betterment of the human race. Part of its work will be to show the bearing of the decline of the birth-rate on national deterioration, and the conditions that promote thriving families. It will strive to regulate the passion of love, absurd as this may seem, and much toward this is expected from placing a social ban on unsuitable marriages. One observer declares that men and women now select life companions less carefully than they do cashiers and cooks.

Observations in different parts of the world have suggested that the earth's atmosphere as a whole was made less transparent than usual in 1902, and that this peculiarity disappeared in 1903. Prof. Cleveland Abbe, of the United States Weather Bureau, is seeking evidence bearing on the reality of this supposed phenomenon, the dates of its beginning and ending, its extent, and its cause.

A new German camera, for secret use, is concealed in the head of a cane.

Human sense organs lack the refined delicacy of the instruments of science. Dr. Carl Snyder points out that countless millions of stars are discovered by the photographic plate and the telescope in place of the 3,000 visible to the eye and that an object 1-10,000 of an inch in diameter is comparatively large in a powerful microscope although one of 1-200 of an inch is scarcely visible to the unaided eye. The tread of a fly, which requires a delicate ear to detect, is magnified by the microphone to the tramp of cavalry. The change in temperature of less than 1-5 of a degree is not perceived by the most sensitive skin, but the bolometer registers on a scale an increase or decrease of a millionth of a degree, and actually notes therein in the temperature of a room when a match is lighted a mile away.

Invar, the peculiar alloy of Dr. Guillaume of Germany, contains nickel and steel in certain proportions. It is remarkable on account of its lack of expansion on being heated, and it may even be so made as to be slightly contracted by heat. It is expected to prove of great value as a means of avoiding the errors in instruments of precision hitherto caused by expansion. Measuring apparatus, surveying apparatus, and especially timepieces, will depend upon it for improvement.

The novel burglar catcher of an Indiana man, intended for stores and other buildings unoccupied at night, consists of a steel tube closed at one end by a cork and at the other by a smaller tube of gunpowder, and containing formaldehyde or other noxious vapour. When an electric circuit is closed by a step on a mat or in other way, a small wire is heated, firing the powder and releasing the formaldehyde.

A colourscale prepared by J. F. Tocher, F.R.C., for classifying hair, represents 25 different colours of human hair.

WHY MEN SWEAR.

A correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette gives an analysis of a conversation in a railway train which should rouse the advocates of clean speech to a new crusade against bad language. He states that a party, in explaining to a friend that owing to misdirection by a porter he had missed a quicker train, made use of fifty-six "unparliamentary" expressions—Seventeen adjectives of a lurid hue. Five appeals to the Almighty. Two invocations that his own eyesight might be destroyed. Three imprecations upon the eyes of the referred official. Seven iterations of the name of the infernal regions. One aside issue, necessitating the name of the Messiah. Seventeen adjectives of simple obscenity. Four epithets of an unclassified nature. An East End clergyman who has lived much among working men gave it as his opinion that the reason why working men so often made use of "strong" language is "the natural and laudable desire of the speaker to impart a vigorous and picturesque touch to his narrative. The habitual user of bad language," said he, "is not necessarily a depraved person. The use, for instance, of sixty expressions of a lurid type indicates no moral deficiency, but simply the yearning of the man who uttered them for an emphatic style of diction. The probability is that both Carlyle and Mr. Kipling would have been habitual users of very bad language but for the saving grace of education. Carlyle 'dredged' the dictionary for adjectives to express his meaning, and Mr. Kipling invents a word when he wants to strike you with the weight of a six-foot blow." And where he can use Hindustani and call somebody "a pukka hero" the British working man has to fall back on the adjective of lurid type. The working man never learns a tithe of the language. But his soul hankers after something more virile than 'very' and 'extremely,' and in his meritorious but unlearned endeavour to be picturesque he falls into the error of profanity. Teach the working man his own language in the board schools, and 'bad' language will disappear. This argument applies also to the use of words like "awfully nice," &c.

Food will surely create Poison,
if Digestion is Faulty.

Well-digested food is the source of strength. Every act, every thought, every movement of muscle or mind uses up some of the substance of our bodies. Food repairs this loss, but only when it is digested.

Undigested food ferments in the stomach, poisons the blood, starves the body and lowers vitality.

To be strong and healthy, assist your stomach, liver and kidneys to do their work perfectly by taking Mother Seigel's Syrup, which contains food-digesting ferments and gentle tonics for the stomach, and has cured more dyspeptics than any other medicine in the world.

"For nine years I suffered from severe pains in the vicinity of the kidneys, lost my appetite completely, and could only take milk and beef tea; anything more substantial would not remain in the stomach. I became so ill that I was forced to take to my bed. A doctor treated me for almost two months, but without success. On arriving at Cape Town at the outbreak of hostilities, a Malay friend told me of the wonderful qualities of Mother Seigel's Syrup. One bottle relieved me, and now I am never without a bottle in my house." X. Naedien, Malay Location, Johannesburg, March 27th, 1904.
